

Terms and conditions

EHPA information and material

Last amended on 18 August 2015

1. INTRODUCTION

Use of the EHPA website (www.ehpa.org) and any of the content made available on or through it constitutes your acceptance of these terms and conditions. EHPA or its licensors retain copyright, database rights and any other applicable intellectual property rights in the information despite any licences granted to you under these terms and conditions.

2. USE OF THE INFORMATION

(a) Internal use

You may download, print, and retain one copy of the information for your own analysis and evaluation purposes only. You must not share, or enable others to access any information outside your organisation.

(b) External use:

You may reproduce the information in your own work and distribute such work to the public free of charge only, provided that:

- excerpts of non-data EHPA information, including text, graphs and/or figures, must be reproduced in their entirety without any modification to the excerpt's content; and
- you comply with the attribution sub-section 2(c) below.

Furthermore, you are obliged to send to the association a copy of the material in which you use the EHPA information.

If you wish to use the information in a way that is not permitted above (including if you want to sell the work in which EHPA information is reproduced), please email info@ehpa.org.

(c) Attribution

If you reproduce excerpts of any information in your work, you must attribute EHPA and/or their licensors with the following copyright notice:

- Information that is not data: © European Heat Pump Association [year], [Title], Licence: [link to these terms and conditions]
- numerical data presented in aggregated or graphical format: Based on EHPA data from © European Heat Pump Association [year]; modified by [your legal entity name]. Licence: [link to these terms and conditions]

(d) Linking

You may include links to the EHPA website and to free-of-charge EHPA-owned information provided that (a) the link appears clearly with the complete EHPA URL; (b) you do not create frames, or use other visual altering tools, around the EHPA web pages; and (c) you email info@ehpa.org to notify us that you have created a link.

(e) No endorsement or affiliation

You may not use the EHPA logo/emblem without the EHPA's prior written consent. Furthermore, you may not use the information, or link to the information, in a way that suggests that EHPA approves, participates in, is connected/affiliated/associated with, sponsors, or otherwise endorses you, your entity and/or your use of the information.

(f) Duration of licence

The licence granted under these terms and conditions lasts for the duration of the term of the copyright in the relevant licensed information.

EHPA reserves the right at any time and without prior notice to (a) update these terms and conditions and (b) release any information under different licence terms. By continuing to use the information after the terms and conditions have been amended, you acknowledge, agree and accept such amendments. However, any previous licences granted by EHPA in respect of information that are still in effect will continue in full force and effect, unless terminated for breach. If you breach these terms and conditions, any and all licences granted to you pursuant to these terms and conditions will terminate automatically. Termination shall not affect any rights EHPA may have to seek remedies for your licence breach.

(g) Exclusions

The licence granted under these terms and conditions does not cover (a) any personal data in the information, (b) trade marks, logos, emblems, patents or design rights, nor (c) any information, including any graphs or figures, identified as being owned or sourced from third parties (i.e. non-EHPA information). It is your responsibility to obtain the necessary permission to use such information from the relevant third party copyright owner; you alone are liable for any infringement claims in relation to your use of such third party information.

Furthermore, nothing in these terms and conditions affects any fair dealing, fair use or any other copyright or database right exceptions and limitations you may enjoy.

3. SUBSCRIPTIONS

In these terms and conditions, "subscriber material" means information subject to charge and "subscriber" means either (a) an individual that purchases a licence for his or her own access and use of subscriber material or (b) an entity that purchases a licence for its employees to access and use the subscriber material. In the case of non-individual subscribers, subscriber and users must not allow any other people to access and use the subscriber material, except that a:

- the licence also permits the subscriber to store one hard copy only of non-data subscriber material in the subscriber's library and/or circulate it amongst the subscriber's employees;
- the licence also permits the subscriber to share such subscriber material in electronic format with all its employees who needs to access the subscriber material in order to perform work solely for the subscriber. Please note that (a) the licence does not permit a subscriber to share the subscriber material electronically with its affiliates (see definition below). A subscriber is deemed to accept these terms and conditions upon purchase of the relevant licence to the subscriber material. Non-individual subscribers must ensure that their users comply with them.

EHPA reserves the right to terminate a subscriber's (and where relevant its user's/users') access to any subscriber material if it becomes aware that the subscriber or any user(s) have committed a breach of these terms and conditions. If a subscription is terminated for breach, the subscriber and its user(s) must cease use or distribution of the subscriber material and any material relating to the subscriber's breach. Furthermore, the subscriber must ensure the destruction and deletion of any copies of subscriber material and any material relating to the subscriber's or its user's/users' breach in their possession and/or control.

subscribers have the right to cancel their subscription at any time. If a subscription expires or is cancelled other than for breach, the subscriber's access to the subscriber material will be terminated but the subscriber may retain any PDF or authorised copies of the subscriber material, whether electronically or in hard copy, and continue to use them in accordance with these terms and conditions. However, EHPA will not refund any pre-paid subscription fees for any remaining period of a subscription after the date of termination or cancellation.

subscribers are responsible for the procurement, installation and maintenance of any software or equipment that enables them and their user(s) to access the subscriber material.

"affiliates" means any company which is directly or indirectly affiliated with the subscriber. A particular company is (a) directly affiliated with subscriber if the latter holds 50% or more of the shares or similar entitlements carrying the right to vote at a general meeting (or its equivalent) of the particular company; and (b) indirectly affiliated with subscriber if a series of companies can be specified, beginning with subscriber and ending with the particular company, so that each company in the series, except subscriber, is directly affiliated with one or more companies earlier in the series.

All enquiries about subscriptions should be sent to info@ehpa.org.

4. DISCLAIMER

EHPA provides the information (including EHPA website) on an "as is" and "as available" basis. EHPA's goal is to keep the information accurate and complete, but it makes no representations, guarantees or warranties (express, implied or otherwise) of any kind concerning the information, including without limitation no warranties of satisfactory quality, availability, fitness for a particular purpose, accuracy, completeness, merchantability, up-to-datedness, title or against infringement of the proprietary or other rights of third parties. EHPA reserves its right to change, update or discontinue in any way part or all of the information or change any publication release dates, without notice or any liability.

The information is not intended to be and should not be relied upon by you in making (or refraining from making) any decisions. EHPA shall not, under any circumstances, be liable to you for any loss, damage, liability or expense incurred or suffered (including all loss of profit, loss of use, loss of revenue, loss of contracts, increased costs and expenses and all special, indirect and consequential losses) which is claimed to result from access (or lack of access) to, use of, or reliance on, the information, including without limitation, from any fault, error, omission, interruption or delay in such respect. Use of the information is at the subscriber's, any user's and your sole risk.

Except where expressly stated, the information does not necessarily represent the views or policies of EHPA Secretariat and/or individual EHPA member countries.

The information does not imply the expression of any opinion whatsoever on the part of EHPA Secretariat concerning the legal status of any country or of its authorities. The information and any maps included in it are without prejudice to the status of or sovereignty over any territory, to the delimitation of international frontiers and boundaries and to the name of any territory, city or area.

EHPA may mention or refer to specific companies, certain products or information on external websites. This does not imply EHPA endorsement, preference or recommendation in such respect. Reliance on this third party material is at your sole risk.

EHPA reserves the right at its sole discretion to deny any access to EHPA websites or any portion of them without notice. For site security purposes and to ensure that EHPA websites remain available to all users, we may employ software programmes to monitor network traffic to identify unauthorised attempts to upload or change information, or otherwise cause damage and to detect other possible security breaches.

5. GENERAL

Nothing in these terms and conditions shall constitute or be considered to be a limitation upon or a waiver of the privileges and immunities that may apply to EHPA, which are specifically reserved.

Failure by either you or EHPA to exercise any right or remedy under these terms and conditions does not constitute a waiver of that right or remedy.

6. DISPUTE RESOLUTION

If any disputes arising under these terms and conditions cannot be settled amicably, it is agreed that matters shall be referred to arbitration by the Brussels Chamber of Commerce. The decision taken by the arbitrator is binding.